Covered Calls

In addition to concentrating on high-dividend paying equities, the Fund will also sell covered calls on either a portion or all of selected equity positions. The amount of the entire equity position that will have call options written against it will depend on the volatility (and thus option premiums) of the underlying common equity and the projected upside on the Manager's target price. Equities that are expected to be long-term core holdings, but are near their current target prices, are ideal candidates to have covered calls written against them.
